

Mirela Tudora

About

Mirela Tudora is a licensed architect whose practice centers on the design and refinement of Orthodox church buildings, working closely with parishes to translate liturgical tradition into built form.

Born in Romania, a cradle Orthodox country, surrounded by ageless churches and monasteries, she developed a natural discernment in selecting what an Orthodox expression is and what isn't.

From the first moment she moved to the US in 2001, she started building churches with Orthodox communities nationwide. Being a presbytera and a mother of 5 made the entire experience more adventurous, yet also more meaningful. Raising her kids in the church, participating in chanting, church educational programs, festivals, youth advisor, and design advisor for her parish— has given her a lived experience that carries into every project.

Credentials

- Licensed Architect, State of Texas
- Several churches built throughout the US

Focus Areas

- Orthodox church architecture and design
- Working with clergy and parish communities to align design with liturgical practice

Contact

mirela.tudora@gmail.com